Scenario 2 - The Study of Life Double-sided

Nashwa Hassan

The chapel is fragrant from burning incense and dimly lit by lanterns hanging from the low ceiling. On the opposite side, standing by the altar, you find a figure dressed with perhaps more clothes than you think necessary for the climate. She is covered from head to toe in a variety of colorful scarfs and shawls, and speaks in an unknown accent with the other researchers, who wander in and out of the chapel, seemingly to consult her.

Put the set-aside Nashwa Hassan (Expedition Leader) into play in the Chapel.

Academic Pursuits

Researchers in well-appointed clothes are spread throughout the ruins studying piles of books and relics. Though they mostly ignore you, they seem friendly enough. If you can find their leader, perhaps you could help each other.

Each Cultist enemy loses hunter and gains aloft.

Objective – Explore the ruins. (Find and complete an objective on another scenario card to advance.)

Basement Hallway

Stairs to a basement were hidden behind a false wall. What sorts of secrets must lie in the basement?

Book Smarts

This person, despite standing by the altar, does not appear to be a religious leader but an administrative one. If you can get some of her time and make introductions, perhaps you could discuss some mutual co-operation.

Each Cultist enemy loses hunter and gains aloft.

Objective – Find out what Nashwa Hassan knows. (You will be instructed when to advance.)

Basement Hallway

Investigators in the Basement Hallway spend 1 ? clues, as a group: Put the set-aside Domed Chamber location into play.

"This raving creature had to be silenced. But doing so proved maddeningly impossible. How had he survived the stockades, the icy waters, and the knives I delivered so enthusiastically into his back?"

"It must be done"

She turns out to be quite open to conversation, and introduces herself. "I hail from a clever, far east of here, where I used to provide alchemical services. In recent years, my research has led me to this area. You see, there are rumors of certain techniques and alchemical processes originating in this area that are said to yield wondrous results. That is why we are exploring the manor: to discover whether or not these rumors are substantial..."

You explain your situation, that you are also exploring the manor and would love to exchange notes on how best to deal with the dangers therein. However, when you mention why you are here, her smile vanishes. She starts muttering to herself, and before you are able to interrupt, she rises to her feet. "I apologize. It must be done..."

With one short incantation, she fades away and vanishes.

Cut off the head...

Killing their leader and destroying their cannon would be a supreme show of force. Without Vulf or the cannon to rally around, their forces would be directionless and a decisive victory would be on the table.

Objective – If Brigand 12-Pounder and Warlord Vulf are in the victory display, advance this act.

Act 1e

"...and the rest will follow"

Rudderless, the brigands are easy pickings, each acting individually in their own interests. You gather any townsfolk still fighting and begin the task of mopping up groups of brigands one by one.

Defend the Hamlet

These opportunistic killers are entering the hamlet from every direction; you must do what you can to save the lives and homes of the townsfolk.

Objective – Reinforce the gates while preventing the brigands from pillaging the hamlet. If all 4 gates are "fully defended," advance this act.

Illus. Darkest Dungeon 11 / 69 176

Sharpshooter

Most of the brigands seem to be coming in from the east gate, the one closest to their camp outside of town. However, some of the more cunning ones are taking a longer route and entering via less well-trodden entrances. Spawn the set-aside Brigand Sharpshooter at the West Gate. Shuffle 1 of the set-aside copies of Rush of Brigands into the encounter deck, along with the encounter discard pile. Discard cards from the top of the encounter deck until 1 Brigand enemy is discarded (2 enemies instead if there are 3 or 4 investigators in the game) and spawn those enemies following the effect of Brigand Reinforcements.

General Panic

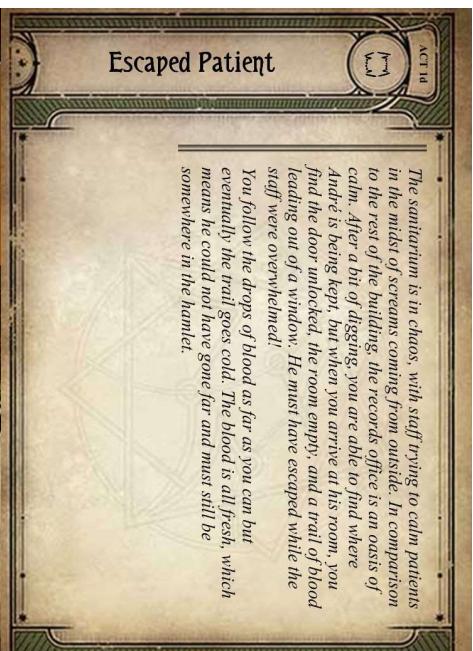

The mayor stands on a pedestal and rises above a crowd in the middle of the town square. He tries in vain to placate the panicked crowd with rhetoric, but it is clear to all that he has no plan. You look around to see if anybody might be able to help you with your efforts, but the more level-headed individuals must already be doing what they can around and about the hamlet. There is nothing more you can do here.

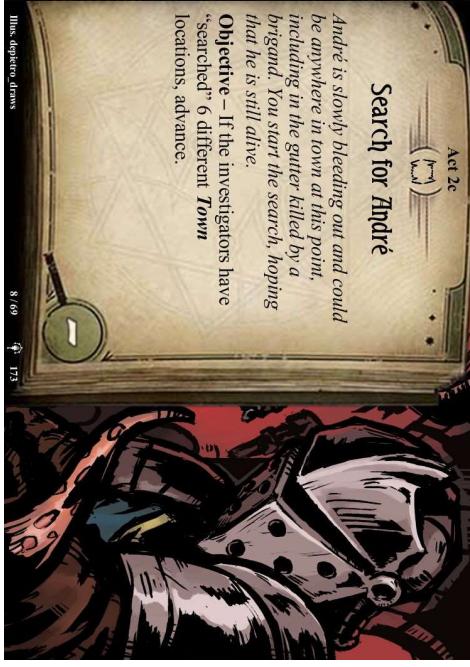

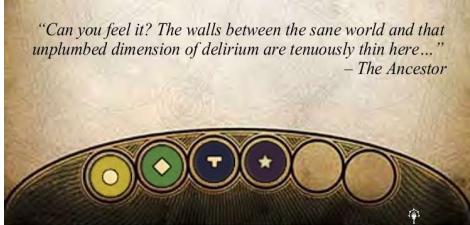

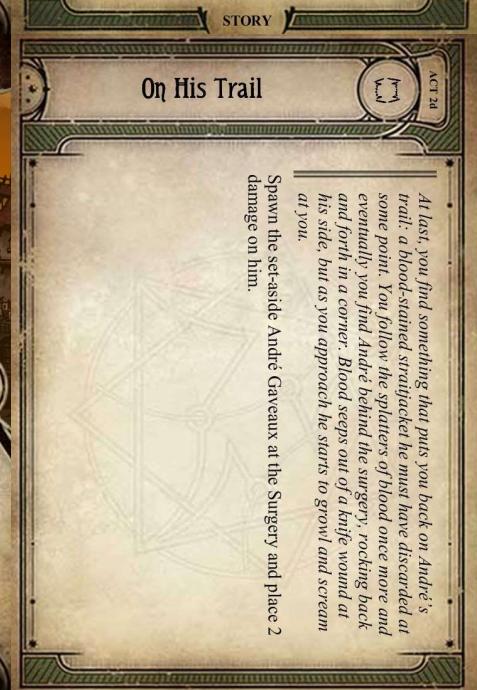

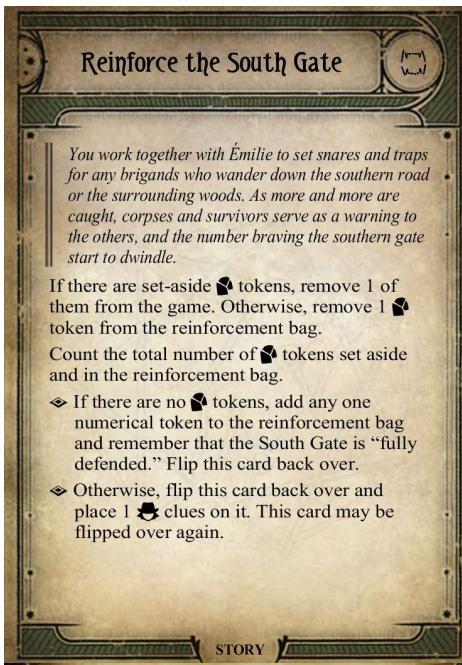

You consider where you might find help in the defense of the hamlet.

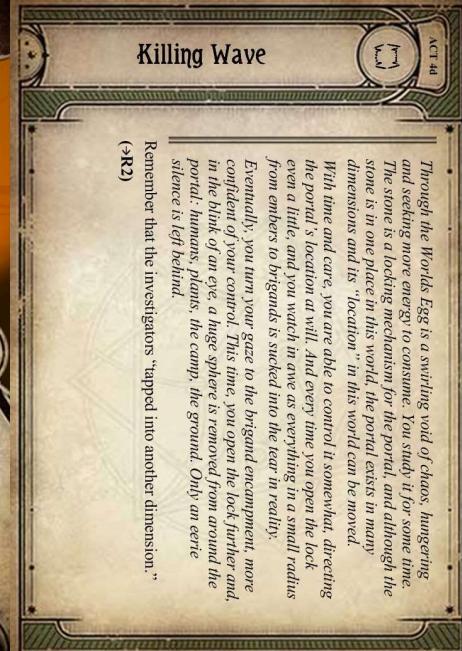

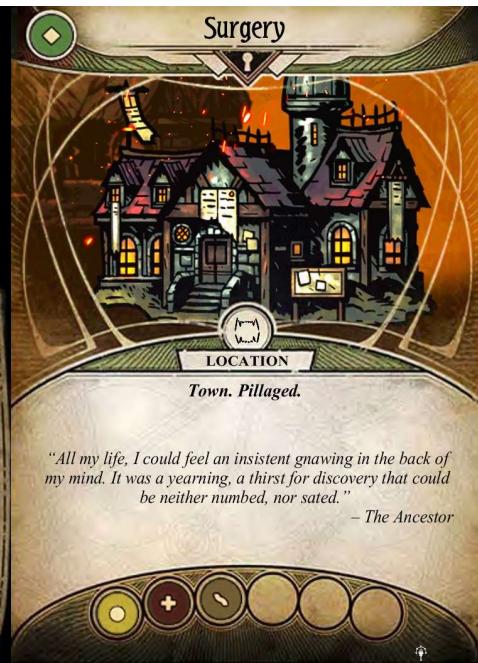

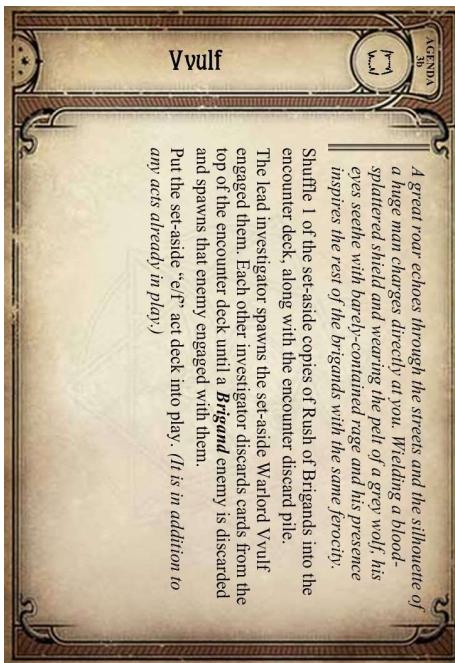

- ◆ This is surely what Victorine and Bernard, the guildmasters, have been training for.
- ◆ Émilie, the survivalist, holds her own in a fight too.
- ◆ Kezia, at the wagon, and Edmond the smithy can probably help you with magic and equipment if you can convince them to part with some of their stock.

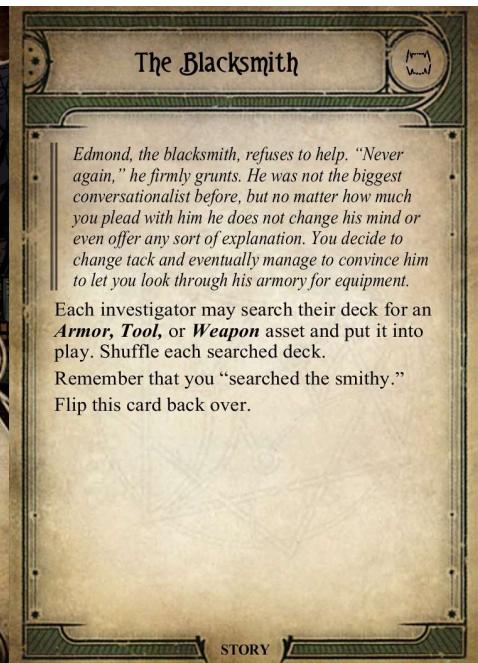

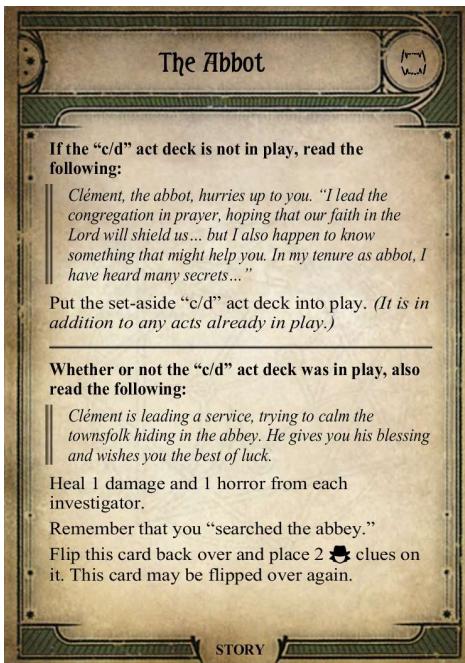

Each investigator at the Town Center may move to a connecting location. Remember that you "searched the town center." Flip this card back over.

STORY

The front line of this war is not in the dungeon, but rather, inside the mind.

8

Illus. Darkest Dungeon 38 / 69 199

The Survivalist

You find Émilie in the woods where she makes her camp laying hunting traps and relentlessly picking off brigands one by one. You help finish them off, glad to be fighting with her and not against her. Afterwards, she thanks you for the help, passes on her maps of the area, hoping you can put them to good use, and then leaves further south to secure more ground.

Choose an investigator to take control of the set-aside Émilie's Maps story asset.

Remember that you "searched the campsite." Flip this card back over.

Liliane, psychologist and director of the sanitarium, refuses to flee the building, despite the dangers. As you prepare to move on, you warn her to, at the very least, make preparations in case the brigands decide to enter the sanitarium. She chuckles and replies softly, "There's no need to worry about us."

Remember that you "searched the sanitarium." Flip this card back over.

All manner of diversion and dalliance await those who cross the threshold with coin in hand.

3

The brigand attack has continued unabated with no end in sight. There are simply not enough hands in the hamlet to fend them off and you are able to help only so much. As you hear yet more brigands enter the hamlet, you feel it within you. The brigands were never going to be stopped and it was foolish of you to try. You sneak out of the hamlet amidst the chaos and close your heart to the suffering of the townsfolk you leave behind.

(→R1)

Alone in the woods or tunnels, survival is the same. Prepare, persist, and overcome.

4

Illus. Darkest Dungeon 36 / 69 197

The Tavern Keep

If the "c/d" act deck is not in play, read the following:

Leopold waves you over. "You know me, I'm no rumormonger, but this is more important than my reputation. Before he was carted off to the sanitarium, André used to drown his fears here, and during one of drunken reveries told me a secret about a relic he stole from that ancestor of yours."

Put the set-aside "c/d" act deck into play. (It is in addition to any acts already in play.)

Whether or not the "c/d" act deck was in play, also read the following:

You find Leopold huddled in the tavern with a number of other townsfolk. With Leopold dispensing some "encouragement," some of the people hiding here volunteer to help.

Remove 1 clue from each of up to 1 different locations.

Remember that you "searched the tavern."

Flip this card back over and place 2 ♠ clues on it. This card may be flipped over again.

In time, you will know the tragic extent of my failings... — The Ancestor

Your ears are filled with resonating explosions and the cries of the wounded. (Brigand Reinforcements is in effect.) Each non-Pillaged location counts as an investigator for the purpose of determining where hunter enemies move during the enemy phase.

When you search your surroundings, you find a door that has been disturbed more recently than the rest of the library and is mysteriously sealed shut. Could this be somewhere your ancestor visited? Or is the library not as empty as you initially thought?

Clues cannot be discovered from the Sylvan Library unless at least 1 ♦ + 2 of the following are true:

- ◆ An investigator “snuffed out the candles.”
- ◆ An investigator “displaced the leyline.”
- ◆ An investigator “removed the lodestone.”
- ◆ An investigator “consecrated the ground.”

Objective – If each undefeated investigator is at the Sylvan Library and no clues are on it, advance.

A faint shimmer briefly permeates the woods, followed by an inexplicable moment of silence. With the ward protecting the library dispelled, you are able to walk close enough to the base of the great tree to see more details, and after one more long hike around the trunk, you find the entrance nestled in a clearing framed by the tree's roots.

Scenario 7 - Rising Tides

Double-sided

The Earth Awakens

ACT 1b

A rumbling sound reverberates through the caverns, and rocks start to fall from the ceiling and walls around you. Visions of failure, of being buried alive, flash through your mind. It is clear the earth itself is enraged and is lasting out against yet more intruders.

Search the exploration deck, encounter deck, and encounter discard pile for the Siren and spawn it at any investigator's location. Shuffle each deck that was searched.

Fighting the Tide

ACT 2b

Behind the door is a narrow stone stairway that leads upwards towards the manor. As you start the final trek, a great wave of water washes past you and you hear the door slam shut behind.

Find each location card in the exploration deck and remove them from the game. Shuffle the remaining set-aside Steps locations into the exploration deck.

If there is no horror on the Hidden Door, place 1 horror on it.

Navigating the Cove

Act 1a

You have entered the cove in search of the other entrance into the manor that Captain Renaudin believes existed, but the tides in the area are rapid and unpredictable. The sea already laps at your ankles...

→ Explore for a connecting location. If you find one, move to it and shuffle the top card of the encounter deck into the exploration deck.

Hidden Doors

ACT 1b

The cove continues further than you would have imagined seeing it from the outside, its paths winding and labyrinthine. Well-worn routes suggest that there must have been a singular entrance to the manor hidden somewhere.

Shuffle the set-aside Hidden Door location into the exploration deck.

Making an Entrance

Act 2a

Your ancestor used the cove as a back entrance to the manor, but he must have feared its existence being revealed for it is no easy task locating the door.

→ Explore for a connecting location. If you find one, move to it and shuffle the top card of the encounter deck into the exploration deck.

A Rising Tide

Agenda 1a

After a turbulent journey over the sea, there is little noise in the cove save for the mournful echoing of wind through the tunnels.

Forced – At the end of the round: Place 1 horror on each location with horror on it.
